All about Prince Harry

Prince Harry's full name is Henry Charles Albert David Mountbatten-Windsor. He was born to his mother, Princess Diana, and his father, Prince Charles, on 15th September 1984 in St Mary's Hospital in Paddington, London. He is their second child – his older brother, Prince William, was born two years earlier. Prince Harry began travelling with his parents at an early age and made his first royal visit to Italy at less than one year of age.

As an adult, Prince Harry decided to join the army and began training at the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst in May 2005. After ten years, Prince Harry left the armed forces and now dedicates his time to royal visits and supporting charities who raise money for a range of causes, including people injured during their time in the armed forces.
