

Summer here we come!

Dear Families,

It was so wonderful to welcome so many of you to Achievement Assembly yesterday. It was packed with support and it was heart-warming to feel that love around our pupils. It is one of the many reasons I love St Mary's. It was a mammoth celebration and the children did so well to listen, clap and focus for such a long amount of time. They are wonderful.

Thank you to everyone for ensuring our children were here to the bitter end. Our attendance was the highest ever and I am glad they managed to enjoy every event, reward, moment and laugh as these are the key memories and builds their concept of commitment and self-expectation. It was a joy!

The children have done their surveys, the staff too and I do hope all parents can just take 5 mins to take part. It really does give us a snapshot of your feedback. However, the more we get, the more we can listen and act on. So please please do click now: Ofsted Parent View

Thank you so much for the amazing gifts, flowers and treats. The words in the cards or by email are always taken and stored in our teaching souls. They mean so much—thank you for taking the time and energy to do this when you are so busy.

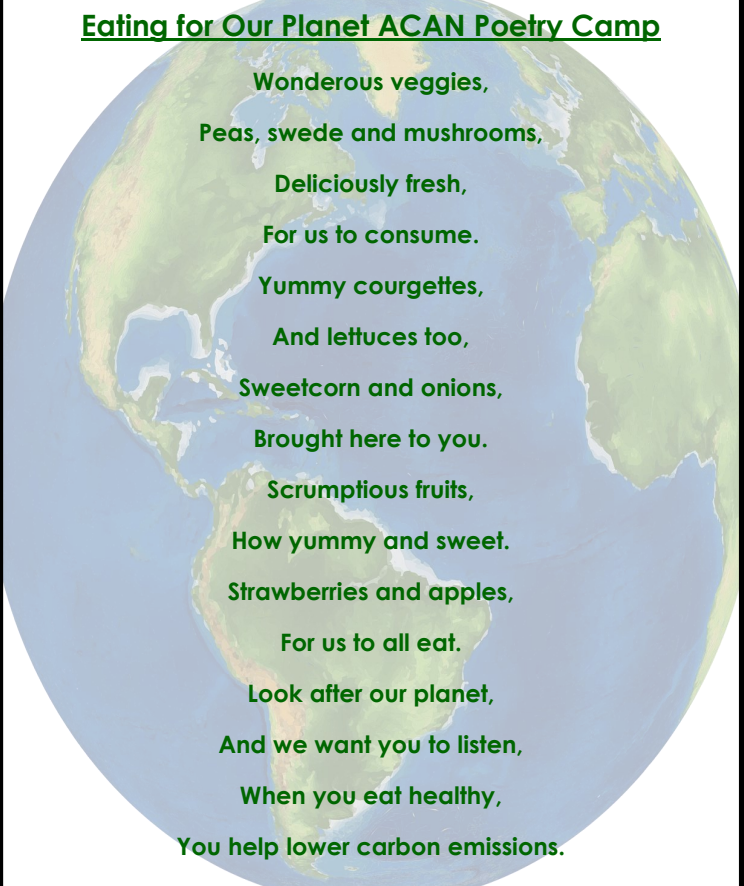

So that's it from me. It's the end of another year. We have all worked hard—pupil, parent, teacher, LSA, admin, site and minibus driver—and we all deserve some time to rest, recharge and reset. I know that the summer can be a juggle with work and children but I hope when you do get some family time that you enjoy it. Hold them close and enjoy this summer as they do go by quicker and quicker. Someone once said to me that you only have 10 summer holidays (school ones) with you children and to cherish them. Once I am not quite sure about that exactly, I get the point; we need to see them for their new selves and have fun with them whenever we can.

Take care and see you in September. Wishing you a safe, healthy and very happy summer.

Kind regards,

Mrs Jo Ayres, Headteacher

Eating for Our Planet ACAN Poetry Camp

Wonderous veggies,
Peas, swede and mushrooms,
Deliciously fresh,
For us to consume.
Yummy courgettes,
And lettuces too,
Sweetcorn and onions,
Brought here to you.
Scrumptious fruits,
How yummy and sweet.
Strawberries and apples,
For us to all eat.
Look after our planet,
And we want you to listen,
When you eat healthy,
You help lower carbon emissions.

Team GB Athlete Talk

On Friday 17th July, all the children at St Mary's were lucky to hear from Izzy Fry, who is a member of Team GB and Team England, and she will be running the 10,000m at the Commonwealth Games and European Championships this summer. This concluded our inspirational female speakers this year. The children are all really excited now to watch her compete. If you would like to watch her, she'll be running on Monday 27th July 2026 (Commonwealth Games) and Friday 14th August 2026 (Europeans). Both events will be on television and evening sessions.

After-School Tutoring with Miss Corlett

Miss Corlett will be offering after-school tutoring sessions next term for children in Years 2–6.

Sessions are available Monday to Friday, 3:30–4:30pm, depending on availability, and cost £20 per session.

If you feel your child would benefit from additional support, please contact Miss Corlett directly via email at s.corlett@bentworth.hants.sch.uk to discuss availability or arrange sessions.

Think Pharmacy First!

Did you know that you can take your child to your local pharmacy and get treatment for five medical conditions? These are:

- Ear ache (children aged 1-17)
- Sore throat (over 5s)
- Infected insect bites (over 1s)
- Impetigo (over 1s)
- Sinusitis (aged 12 and over)

If your child is poorly with any of the above conditions, by going straight to your local pharmacy you can have a consultation with a trained pharmacist and receive advice and even medication (if appropriate) and your child can get back to school sooner.

Visit our Pharmacy First website to find out more.

Anxiety

Top tips on how to talk to your children about their feelings

It can be so tricky to bring up difficult topics, and talking about emotions with your children can sometimes feel more than a little daunting for parents and carers. You may worry about saying the wrong thing, making your child feel uncomfortable, and even worry about making them feel worse. But the fact you want to explore emotions with your child is enough, even if sometimes it doesn't go as you planned!

Here are some handy tips on how you could begin talking to your children about their feelings.

Ask them what they need

It can be tough to talk about how you feel, and when we want to talk about things as parents, children don't always want to or feel ready. Asking what a child needs from you can help them feel more in control, heard, and respected.

Children might also not know what they need, so suggesting a few options can be a good starting point. For example, do you need some space right now?

Name it

Sometimes it can be hard for children to identify their feelings. Naming what you observe can help them to do this. For example, when talking to a young child, you might say, "You seem really angry today. I can see you are clenching your hands, and you don't have a happy face. I wonder if anything has made you angry or upset?"

Listen carefully

This sounds pretty straightforward, but sometimes, when we care, we may jump into problem-solving mode a little too hastily. And while it might come from a really good place, it's not always helpful.

Choose your timing wisely

Talking about feelings, or any difficult subject, can be quite sensitive. Choosing a time when you are both calm and relaxed can be more useful than choosing a time when there are any heightened emotions already at play.

Think about the setting

Talking about feelings can be really sensitive, so making sure the space is private, comfortable, and feels safe for your child can be key to a positive outcome.

Practice asking open questions (rather than closed ones)

Closed questions usually encourage yes or no type answers. Open questions, on the other hand, go a bit deeper and encourage more thinking and exploration. This simple difference in style might help your child consider their own thoughts and feelings a little more and encourage them to share more of their story or problem with you.

Think about whether your child feels ready to talk

Just because you want to talk doesn't mean they feel ready to. Look out for the things they say, and their body, too, for indicators on whether they really want to talk about their feelings.

Model it

Being more open and honest about how you yourself feel (in an age appropriate way, of course) can normalise the idea of talking about emotions. Children who see that adults also have big feelings, doubts, get scared or anxious, get frustrated with others at work, etc. might feel more comfortable opening up themselves.

Get creative

We might feel a pressure to have all the answers and say the right things, but sometimes, we just need to think a little differently. Helping our children express their feelings through play or using art materials can be just as important and useful, especially for much younger children whose natural language is often play.

Take away the intensity

It can be pretty daunting (on both sides) to sit down to talk about something as important as feelings. But decreasing some of the intensity can sometimes reduce the pressure and make things a little less stressful.

SPACES AVAILABLE

Looking for a nurturing, inspiring nursery where children are free to explore, wonder and learn through play?

At our Curiosity Approach nursery, we create beautiful, authentic environments that spark imagination, encourage independence and celebrate childhood. Every day is filled with opportunities for children to investigate, create and develop at their own pace in a warm, caring setting.

 We offer 15 and 30 hours of fully funded childcare for eligible families.

Every day is an Open Day!

There's no need to wait for a special event—simply give us a call to arrange a visit at a time that suits you. We'd love to show you around, answer your questions, and let you experience what makes our nursery so special.

 Call us today to arrange your visit – we'd love to meet you!
